

TELL THE WORLD or at least that part of it that travels U.S. 30 and U.S. 45—that Saturday, Aug. 26 is Sauerkraut Day in Frankfort. A sign to this effect was hoisted aloft at the intersection of the two routes Monday night by some of the members of the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce. That organization is sponsoring the Sauerkraut Jamboree. In the picture (to r) are, Jim Geuther, vice president; Ralph Shaw, president; Harlan Eisenbrandt, decorations chairman; Glenn Schroeder and Edward Lauffer, members, and Lee Robinson, secretary.

Special Events To Mark Sauerkraut Jamboree

Plans continue to roll at a breath-taking pace for the Frankfort Sauerkraut Jamboree to be held Saturday, Aug. 26, sponsored by the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce.

Sales and special attractions at the local stores will comprise the morning activity. Street activities will get underway at noon and continue through the evening.

The sauerkraut garden will open at 12 o'clock noon and serve continuously thru the jamboree. A German band will play from 1 to 5 p.m. It will also furnish marching music for the kiddie and pet parade scheduled for 2 p.m. Hand-powered go-cart races will begin at 2 p.m. also.

Interested onlookers will be challenged to a tug-o-war by the Frankfort fire department members at 4 p.m. The fire fighters will also be in charge of the water fights between local civic groups and the Lincoln-Way high school girls at 6:30 p.m.

A band concert, under the direction of Perry Friedman, with musicians from Frankfort and Mokena grade schools, will be presented at 7:30 p.m. and 8 p.m. An evening of dancing will take place at the parking lot of the State Bank of Frankfort.

KAREN KORISTA recent graduate of Lincoln-Way high school is the recipient of an Illinois State Scholarship in special education and will enroll this September as a freshman at Illinois State Normal university where she is planning to study speech therapy as her field of special interest in the general field of special education.

Miss Korista was an honor student during her four years at Lincoln-Way and was presented with a gold medal for academic achievements by A. Hunter Chapman, superintendent at senior honor night program. She was also the recipient of a scholarship awarded by the Lincoln-Way chapter of the National Honor Society.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Korista, reside on Maple road, New Lenox.

Invite Women To Form 125th Groups

All area women are invited to join Will county's 125th anniversary celebration by forming Frankfort and Mokena chapters of Celebration Belles.

These strictly-for-fun organizations will encourage the making and wearing of old-fashioned dresses to participate in the county-wide celebration, it was explained.

Over 25 chapters are being formed in the county and will meet to stage an old fashioned style show Sept. 7.

Newcomers as well as older residents are asked to join and represent Frankfort and Mokena in this celebration. Those interested may call Marcia Miller, Mokena 5858 or Frances Briedert Frankfort 4692 to form local chapters.

Vote On Ann Rutledge School Bonds Saturday

Voters of Ann Rutledge school district, No. 56-C, will go to the polls Saturday, Aug. 19 to ballot on a proposal to issue $69,000 in bonds to meet the cost of an addition to the present plant. Also included in the figure will be some remodeling of the older structure.

The school will serve as the polling place. The hours of voting will run from 12 noon to 7 p.m.

A meeting of the voters was held Monday night at the school where members of the board explained the plans and answered questions.

Like other school districts in the area 56-C has been effected by the migration from the cities to the suburbs. It is estimated the enrollment this September will hit the 130 mark and there is every indication that it will continue to grow. Present sanitation facilities are quite inadequate, a board spokesman pointed out, and the plans call for complete modernization of the washrooms. There will also be a teachers' rest-room and an administrative office.

The proposed addition will give the school five classrooms with accommodations for some 180 pupils.

The entire school plant will be veneered with brick and the additional rooms added so the building will have a new and modern look. Fire resistant material will be used in the construction to eliminate that hazard as far as possible, it was explained.

The board of education is hopeful of public support of the bond issue because if the building is not expanded now the school will be overcrowded in 1962, it was said.

Ann Rutledge school is used for many community affairs. Residents of Lincoln Estates have always shown great interest in school needs in the past, a board spokesman said, and it was hoped they would respond to the request for funds to carry out the construction program, he added.

Board Moves To Collect Water Bills, Auto Fees

Delinquent village water users and those not displaying or have not purchased village vehicle stickers were the main topics under discussion before the Mokena village board meeting last Tuesday evening.

As 10-day notices have been sent to those in arrears of city water payments the board as authorized to have the water shut off to the users until payments are received. Members of the police department will contact owners for violation of village vehicle stickers.

In order to widen the present driveway of the local post office to 24 feet, permission was granted to the builder to relocate the light pole now adjacent to the driveway. This is to be done at his own expense.

It was also decided at the meeting to purchase additional hose to be used in flushing out the village hydrants and a definite schedule will be planned to periodically inspect the sewer manholes.

Fire hydrants are now in the process of being repainted and as soon as weather conditions improve the village water tower will be given a new coat of paint and resealed.

Thursday afternoon, Oct. 12, is the time chosen for the Missionary bazaar and All-church supper at Homer church. Mr. and Mrs. George Milton returned home Sunday from a visit with relatives in Kansas. Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Cox and Miss Coral Murphy and Kenneth Cox were entertained at dinner Sunday in the Otto Moravec home.

Homer Church marked another milestone in its 128 years of history by burning all traces of indebtedness on the building which they erected after the fire in 1952-when they held a special program at the church last Sunday evening. Rev. H.M. Finley was the guest speaker with Rev. Stanley Cox presiding.

The junior choir under Mrs. Ted Grimm's direction, furnished the special music. Because of the illness of Faye Rodgers, Betty Anderson was at the organ. Bob Burch showed slides picturing the work of building from excavating to completion. The pictures were taken by Mrs. Jim Coleman, who at that time lived in the parsonage, and were very complete. Mrs. Cox read a brief history of the church compiled by John White and Elizabeth Anderson.

The trustees burned the notes as a litany was read by minister and congregation. The affair was well attended with several guests from Lockport and New Lenox being present. Refreshments and a social hour were enjoyed following the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Boyd have moved to the Zolecki house on Rt. 7. Mrs. Boyd is the former Carol Ott. Ray Carlson entertained the Sangmeister, who has his court at Lincolnwood, reported last week that he had disposed of eight traffic cases in the period from July 20 to Aug. 3 from which Will County received $162. $37.60 for driving a truck overweight on one axle.

Richard Shelton, 405 Davison st., Joliet, paid two fines, one of $15 for being overweight on license and $38.60 for overweight on gross.

Ernest Settles, of 14422 Woodland, Orland Park, was fined $15 for speeding; Mosses Yoder, Middlebury, Ind., was fined $10 for driving too fast for conditions.

Lyle Weber, of 1435 Park st., Crete, was fined $25.80 for overweight on gross.

On July 27 Lester Miner, 1349 Spector rd., New Lenox, was fined $5 for operating a car on an expired driver's license.

On Aug. 3 a $15 cash bond was forfeited when Terrance J. Wagner, a resident of Michigan, failed to appear. He had been speeding.

Keep Those Weeds Cut!

This is the time of year when hay fever sufferers could happily shoot property owners who allow weeds to grow. Probably the principal reason they don't is that their eyes are too watery for them to take proper aim.

Those of us who are fortunate enough not to suffer from allergies stemming from pollen and grasses are inclined to make light of the plight of those afflicted. Hay fever is anything but a source of comedy, especially to those who have it.

The pollen induced allergies cause considerable distress and persons who contribute to it by letting weeds grow wild on their lots or lands are anything but good neighbors.

As far as we know there isn't a community in the area that has an ordinance requiring property owners to keep their holdings free of weeds.

Each year it is the same. Officials ask property owners to cooperate and keep their weeds mowed. They tell them that if they do not cut the weeds the municipality will do it and present them with a bill for the work.

Sometimes this is done, sometimes the local government has the weeds cut and bills the owner for the labor. Sometimes, it is said, the property owners even pay the bills.

The trouble is that in smaller communities things that should be impersonal become quite personal. One dislikes to blow the whistle on a neighbor but there are times when there is no other course open.

Perhaps this is why it appears there are more complaints against absentee lot owners who allow weeds to grow than those who reside in the community. The absentee owners sometimes profess not to know that weeds are growing on their lots which is a flimsy excuse indeed because they know weeds grow. It is possible, of course, that an absentee owner has made arrangements with some resident to cut the offending greenery and said resident has fallen down on the job. The best thing to do under such circumstances is to inform his neighbors or municipal authorities that arrangements have been made to have the weeds cut and who it is that is supposed to do the job.

There is no excuse for owners who reside in the community. In the event of hardship cases it is quite probable that the authorities would cut the weeds and make some arrangement for payment on an installment basis.

Weeds are not only a health menace but they are unsightly and can be a traffic hazard, particularly if they cover a corner lot.

Keeping lots clear of weeds is not only a duty to ones neighbors but to the community as a whole.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

With the emphasis today on missiles, nuclear bombs, and proposed trips to the moon and other faraway places one naturally expects mathematics to be the one subject on all science study programs. And one is right.

The trouble is one is apt to give too much consideration on this way out math. One is apt to cold-shoulder the lower forms of mathematics, to dismiss the grade school variety with an airy gesture but bow profoundly when the math wizards begin making with the long and complicated formulas made up of letters and numerals.

We feel quite awed in the presence of such genius and knuckle our foreheads in reverence as savants toss off trillions like a spend-happy congress.

Your correspondent, however, feels that not enough attention is paid to the geniuses who take the simpler forms of mathematics (say trigonometry) and bounce them about like an expert on the yo-yo.

For instance we are taught that two plus two equals four but there are men who can show you how they make five or three. Bookmakers, a fast vanishing breed in the United States were always wizards at figures also some of them might not have graduated from the eighth grade. Watching these men juggle percentages was a pleasure that one always finds in watching a good performance. Before the advent of big tote board of the pari mutuel bookmakers accepted wagers at the tracks.

First a bookmaker decided what he wanted to make on a race, eight per cent, 10 per cent or whatever. To attain this end he used the odds set on each horse in the race as based on their past performances.

He figured the book so that regardless of which horse won the bookmaker would get his eight, 10 or whatever percent. This makes for considerable changes to keep the percentages balanced and one doesn't have time to consult tables or slide rules.

The lads that run the roll-down games at carnivals and roadside reptile pits are pretty good with mine-run figures and the boys who tote up the carrying-charge and the interest on installment purchases are better than a fair hand when it comes to adding, subtracting, multiplying and dividing.

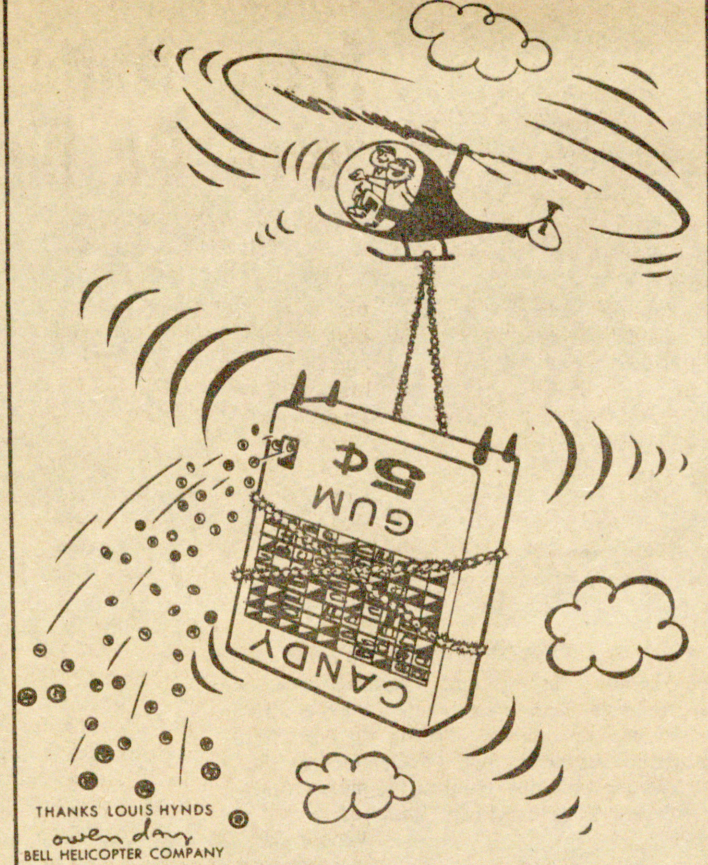

But for fascinating results your correspondent would like to recommend cost-accountants. Most of us at various times have singled out some occupation, firm, individual or industry for condemnation because of price boosts, when we should have blamed mathematics and cost-accounting.

This corner was fascinated recently when he listened to a member of the engineering staff of the New York Central explain the items in a bill of some $500 which was presented to the village of Frankfort for payment in conjunction with the installation of sewer mains under the Elm street and White street crossings.

While the sewer contractor was doing this work it was necessary for the railroad to have a flagman present, as well as an inspector and men to do some work on the signal system, etc.

The railroad employees worked so many hours at so much an hour and it cost so much to restore the signal system. Simple addition disclosed there was a substantial difference between the items figured and the bill's total.

COPTER CARTOON by owen day

"I'll get my nickle back if it's the last thing I do!"

Could the railroad's representative explain, the village trustees wanted to know. "Certainly," he said. It was really quite simple. Those cryptic appearing figures and symbols on the face of the bill were code numbers and some of them referred to some of the costs involved. Some of them, he admitted, not only had him stumped because after all he was in the engineering department, but they also had the auditors on the ropes as far as a quick call was concerned. You know, you can't tell the symbols without a code card.

But the village board must understand that if the railroad paid a man, say $2 an hour, there was more to it than that. The village would be billed the $2 all right, plus overtime rates for Sundays and holidays, vacation pay, insurance, pensions, hospitalization, etc., etc.

The engineer didn't say so but it is possible that also included was dividends on the stock, losses on passenger service, demurrage, and the price of paper cups used by patrons of the ice water containers.

All told something like .425361 per cent was added to the visible costs and that is the way the cookie crumbles.

Now the village is looking forward eagerly to the time when it bills the railroad for cutting weeds on railroad property. In the past the bill was simple, so many hours at so much an hour. Now each rivet, bolt and sickle tooth of the mower can expect to stand up and be counted.

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION IN COOPERATION WITH THIS NEWSPAPER

(This is the eleventh in a series of articles provided as a public service by the Illinois State Bar Association for this newspaper)

Lawyers must abide by strict rules of conduct! From time to time, charges of unethical practices are hurled against the legal profession. Most of us realize, however, that the guilty parties are the few who bring criticism against the entire profession. But many non-lawyers do not realize the strict rules of conduct imposed upon attorneys by what are known as the "Canons of Professional Ethics."

The Illinois State Bar Association has canons of ethics which the members must observe or risk being expelled from the association. And all Illinois lawyers are subject to rules of proper conduct enforced by the Illinois Supreme Court. The codes of ethics are policed and enforced largely by the lawyers themselves and violation of them may lead to disbarment or suspension from practice.

Let us consider several of the more significant canons of the Illinois State Bar Association so that the reader may appreciate the framework within which the lawyer is supposed to conduct his practice.

Influencing Decision: A lawyer is not allowed to attempt to exert personal influence on a court, and may not approach a judge outside of court for the purpose of getting the judge's views, or influencing his opinion, on matters before him in court.

Defense of criminals: It is the right of the lawyer to undertake the defense of the accused, so that innocent persons, victims only of suspicious circumstances, are not denied a proper defense. If the lawyer refused to defend those he thought guilty, he would be acting as judge and jury before the trial.

Further, having agreed to defend the accused, the lawyer is bound to utilize, by fair means, all defenses which are available under the law. On the other hand, the public prosecutor's primary concern is not to convict the accused, but rather to see that justice is done. Consequently, he may be duty bound to aid the accused if he learns of facts or witnesses which establish his innocence.

Conflicting interests: A lawyer may not represent two or more parties in the same matter if the interests of one party conflict with the interests of the other, unless he explains the situation to all parties involved, and obtains their consent to continue in the matter as their attorney. A lawyer may not represent a client in a matter which would require him to divulge or make use of information which was revealed to him in confidence by a former client.

Confidential information: Probably no other section of the canons is of greater importance to the preservation of the dignity of the legal profession than that which requires a lawyer to guard scrupulously the facts revealed to him in confidence by his client. Neither he nor his employees may disclose any information gained as a lawyer, even to closest relatives, and even though the lawyer's employment has long since ended. He may not be forced to testify in court as to confidential disclosures, unless the client consents.

Fixing Fees: Illinois lawyers are admonished by their canons against charging more than their usual fee because the client is able to pay at a higher rate. Nevertheless, every lawyer is expected to reduce his normal fee if the client cannot afford to pay it. Fees are generally based on such considerations as time spent the difficulty of the problem involved and the results obtained for the client.

Report improper conduct: The rules described above do not constitute the entire canons of the Illinois State Bar Association, but they are representative of the type of ethical obligations that a lawyer is bound to observe. Of course, there are a small minority of lawyers who do not pay heed to their duties, whose conduct brings the entire legal profes-

Business & Finance

By MAURICE P. ANGLAND

A well known firm of investment analysts employed by institutional investors and investment firms, in its most recent monthly letter, expressed considerable optimism on the business picture.

A paragraph of this letter with comments on business and the Berlin situation, is quoted. "Every basic fundamental suggests to us, that selective securities should be bought and not sold at this time. Calm examination of the picture should prove that conclusions on future course of security prices should be optimistic. Prevailing pessimism is based on fear of war, fear of deflation, fear of inflation, fear that rearmament will end because there will be no war, fear that under war there will be no profits or that we will become a collectivist state and hundreds of other fears."

The letter goes on to say that most military men think declaration of war unlikely, but that even if war is declared, there would be only a temporary depression of security prices. Certain industries occupy a superior position with respect to several eventualities which may develop, but the outlook for most business is good.

Marketing studies at the University of Michigan, indicate that there will be an increase of 20 per cent in number of automobile buyers in last three months of this year as against 1960 final quarter.

The defense and missile stocks have been reflecting the much larger defense appropriations and the general desire to make certain our defense position is second to none.

Two important fields of science which are not directly connected with the military demands, but which are being vigorously pushed by the government, are

- 1) desalinization of sea water so this water can be used for human consumption and irrigation.
- 2) reduction of pollution of the atmosphere by internal combustion engines.

The greatest boon that could come to many parts of the world would be the ability to obtain adequate fresh water. A number of serious international problems would be near solution with water problem under control.

This government has appropriated considerable funds for this study and about 200 companies and research organizations are working on the problem.

Extracting salt from sea water can be done now, but the cost is too high for practical use. Municipal water systems operate at a cost of 10 cents to 30 cents per thousand gallons.

The Department of Interior recently installed a plant at Freeport, Tex., and cost is reported at slightly more than $1 per thousand gallons. Ionics, Inc., which has about 60 installations of its electrolytic process, states it has been able to reduce costs to less than 60 cents per thousand gallons.

Other well known firms in the field, include Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, Carrier Corp., American Machine & Foundry, Curtiss-Wright and Blaw Knox.

About 16 firms are working on a device to reduce atmospheric pollution by exhaust fumes from internal combustion motors. California will make use of device mandatory two years after acceptance of test of at least two devices.

The federal government is also demanding that such devices be used as soon as practical after development. Applications for tests in California have been made by Arvin Industries, Chromalloy, W. R. Grace, Standard Products, Universal Oil Products, American Cyanamid, DuPont, Union Carbide, Socony Mobil Oil and Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing.

One device has been accepted to date - that made by a subsidiary of Houdry Corporation.

Antarctica, an area nearly as big as Europe and Australia combined, nurtures practically no plants and few animals.

slon into disrepute. Improper conduct should be reported to the state or local bar association so that proper steps may be taken to investigate the charge and, if necessary, impose punishment.

(This column is written to inform and not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without consulting his attorney. Even a slight difference in the facts may change the result under the law.)

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL, ASS'T FARM ADVISER

Every homeowner at one time or another finds it necessary to buy grass seed and establish a lawn. Most people do not have the time to become experts on turf and are often misled by seed salesmen who are only interested in making a sale.

The following rules are from the Brooklyn Botanical Garden Handbook on Lawns and is an excellent guide for inexperienced seed purchasers.

1. Do not buy the cheapest seed unless you want a temporary lawn. The old axiom, "you get what you pay for," is not necessarily true. In the case of cheap lawn seed, you often get less for your money than if you buy high quality seed.
2. Use grass varieties that are best adapted to this area, or to the use to which you will put them. Kentucky bluegrass fine leaved fescues, and bents are suited to northern Illinois. Zoysia, centipede grass, or Bermuda are not well suited except for special uses.
3. Avoid seed that features sensational claims.
4. Avoid seed that hides the analysis. A seedman is proud of good seed. The percent of each variety of seed, the percent of germination of each variety, and the test date should be clearly indicated. If the test date is over nine months previous, or the germination is below 75%, the seed is not dependable. When seed is offered at considerable below the going price, these factors should be checked.
5. Don't rely on your neighbor for advice. You will probably just repeat his mistakes.
6. Realize that seed is only one part - although very important - of the process of establishing a good lawn. For best results, give the seed a good chance by careful preparation of the seedbed and proper attention to watering the seed as it germinates.
7. Secure a good lawn maintenance booklet and follow the suggestions in it. An excellent publication is available from my office at the Extension Service Office, 6657 South St., Tinley Park, or ask your seed dealer for one.
8. When in doubt, consult your farm adviser, or an established, reputable nurseryman.

The Upper Room

Read Proverbs 12:17-23;

John 3:1-11
Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbour. (Exodus 20:16.)

Traveling thru the mountains from a farm where we had some days of vacation, we gave an elderly lady a ride. She was going to a religious meeting. During the few minutes she was in the car, we soon learned that she was very inquisitive and willing to use her tongue.

She wanted to know from where we had come. I mentioned the name of the farmer, "Oh," she said, "he is quite a man - impossible to say anything evil about him."

Then she talked about other people. I am sure they all were sinners, though some were Christians and some non-Christians. She did bear witness - even false witness against non-Christians.

I am quite convinced that it is sin to speak when we bear false testimony and do not keep to the truth. Let us be careful when we talk -- keep to truth and be governed by love.

PRAYER: Dear Father, help us to be more careful when we talk and bring our witness. Let us never hurt people by telling things which are not true. May all we say and do in life express that love which was revealed in Jesus, the truth and the love by which we live. In His blessed name we pray. Amen.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY
The tongue can be used for good or for evil. Let me use it only for good.

Sen. O'Neill Candidate For Re-Election

Reports from DuPage county Senator Lottie Homan O'Neill (R-41st.) would not be a candidate for re-election in the primary next spring were set aside several days ago by the senator herself.

She spent the latter part of last week traveling about Will county. She stopped at various communities, including Mokena and Frankfort.

"I am a candidate," Sen. O'Neill stated, "despite reports to the contrary which I suspect were started by someone who may become my opponent. One thing the reports did was to cause my friends to come to me and urge me to announce that I would be a candidate. So I am obliging my friends."

"People who know me know I am conservative and also that I am always ready to support measures that will accomplish the greatest good for the greatest number. My record in the Illinois legislature, in the house as well as the senate, if open to the public and on that record I base my candidacy."

Sen. O'Neill resides at Downers Grove, DuPage and Will counties make up her district, the 41st senatorial district.

Babe Ruths In 4 Way Tie Loop Lead

New Lenox won two games in the Tri-County Babe Ruth League last week to go into a four-way tie for the league lead. One of those trounced by the Lenox crew was Peotone who needed a victory to be assured of at least a share of the title for the second half of the league season.

New Lenox, under the management of Ron Larsen, of the Lincoln-Way high school athletic staff, beat Peotone 5 to 2 and blanked Beecher 8 to 0.

John Lord got the win against Peotone, holding the losers to five hit while he and his mate, banged out 11 hits.

Jon Davis, a 13-year-old lad, is showing considerable strength on the mound. In the game against Beecher he held them to two hits while New Lenox was collecting 12. Davis has given up but four runs in the last three games in which he has pitched and if he keeps up the present pace he will rival Wayne Fuchs and John Lord for pitching honors.

In the Beecher game Bob Fitzer, New Lenox catcher, had a perfect day at the plate. He got four hits in four times up and scored a run. Earl Montgomery ended a hitting slump with a long double and a single.
